We make sure

Every piece of furniture we make is unique.

Each piece of timber used has been carefully selected and beautifully handcrafted to capture the features of natural timber.

When assembling timber furniture, no two pieces are the same.

We understand the characteristics of organic timber, and how best to utilise hardware and structural techniques to suit every piece of furniture that we make.

With our experience, we ensure that our timber furniture has not only been engineered to be durable, we know it will stand the test of time.

We are responsible.

Brunswick Timber Furniture designs and manufactures solid timber furniture that is made from responsibly sourced timbers.

Our timbers are plantation grown and include native species such as Spotted Gum with its natural durability and wavy grain striking appearance, and Ironbark hardwood, known for its decorative features.

We also manufacture a bespoke range of reclaimed timber furniture made from dismantled wharves, power poles, farm sheds and bridges.

We care about the world we live in.

That's why we only use world standard non-toxic water-based lacquers and stains that are safe for you, and the environment.

Commercial Natural Solid Timber Furniture

The stunning features of ethically sourced natural timbers have been a constant choice for commercial interior designs for many years.

A key to success with timber is that it can be finished to give a look, or take on the colour, that will define the room.

Reclaimed timbers are used to manufacture our bespoke range of boardroom meeting tables and bench tops sourced from dismantled wharves, power poles, farm sheds and bridges.
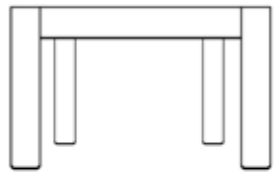

Working with interior designers and architects, we have provided fit out solutions for hospitality and aged care facilities and corporate offices.
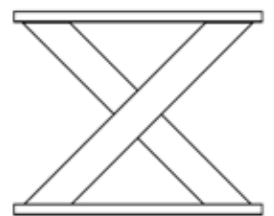

Meeting function and design

Tables and bench tops up to 3300 in length are available in single piece boards. Custom made pieces to meet individual design specifications are also available.
